Reaching educational potential Presented by Dr Christine Yoshinaga-Itano

On-Demand Presentation

Dr Christine Yoshinaga-Itano will present a three-part on-demand presentation to explore the essential factors required to best support outcomes in students who are deaf or hard of hearing (DHH), irrespective of language modality or listening devices.

Each module will focus on a specific area of Dr Yoshinaga-Itano's research to support participant reflection and learning.

Module 1: Dr Yoshinaga-Itano will reflect on the changing landscape of early diagnosis, early amplification and early intervention since these factors were first identified as significantly impacting outcomes for children who are DHH. Dr Yoshinaga-Itano will draw on pivotal research papers to highlight the changes that have occurred in the field overtime.

Module 2: Dr Yoshinaga-Itano will discuss current outcomes for language, social-emotional and cognitive development in students who are DHH.

Module 3: Dr Yoshinaga-Itano will draw on her work with non-English speaking communities in the United States to explore practical strategies that can be applied where early intervention may not have occurred, and language development is delayed.
